

Electric

Broadsheet

publishers of semi-literate doodlings, scraps, & snippets

presents

Rice Pudding

political critical poetry by Calvin O. Xavier

Electric Broadsheet 1.7

is distributed by Poetry Ink Productions

<poetink@inlink.com>

Poetry Ink Productions

Attn: Matthew W. Schmeer

6711-A Mitchell Avenue

St. Louis, MO 63139

Please contact Poetry Ink Productions for all re-distribution permissions.

This presentation ©1997 Electric Broadsheet and Poetry Ink Productions
“Rice Pudding” ©1997 Calvin O. Xavier

(You will need the font New Century Schoolbook installed in your system in order to view this document correctly.)

[Editor's Note: In the United States of America, 1996 was a presidential election year, and on several occasions prior to election day, incumbent Democratic President Bill Clinton met his Republican challenger, retired Senator Bob Dole, in a series of debates. The morning after the first such debate, noted popular fiction writer Anne Rice, best known for Interview With A Vampire and other books on vampire and occult lore, endorsed President Bill Clinton with a full-page advertisement in the New York Times. The question was then posed by the American people: "Anne Rice: patriot or wacko?"]

Rice Pudding

Calvin O. Xavier

Who cares
what

some            weirdo

in
    New Orleans
        says?

She doesn't quite make it with me.

Just because she's a famous popular writer
who writes about Vampires and Satan and Witchcraft doesn't mean
        she really carries any
        cunt
    I care to sniff.

I'm
disgruntled with liberal weirdos

I'm
    calling her bluff.

EAT CLINTON'S DICK

Maybe you'll be the next ambassador to France, baby.